

Doing what's right for ~~Bennelong~~ me!

G'day Constituents,

I love winning elections. I feel great. So even though I'll be retiring soon, I'm spending millions of dollars in Bennelong in the hope that I can get that election-winning feeling one more time. It's my drug.

I've pretty much had my day - done all I set out to do. I've sent our nation to war, brought in a GST, sold off your public assets, and re-written history to remove the black arm band. Sorry? No.

Now I'm scared. I'm scared of losing my seat. It will be so humiliating being 'sent a message' that Australia is waking up. I'm a professional politician - the best ever. Values don't matter. I do.

John Winston Howard

My Achievements

War - Supported the invasion of a sovereign country, even though my top security adviser, Andrew Wilkie told me there were no WMD's - he even resigned over it - the war continues and looks like spilling over into Iran.

Terror - by supporting the war in Iraq, Australia is now less safe. Since September 11 I have held one 2 hour conference with the Islamic community. That ought to do it.

The Economy - I have always supported a "hands-off" approach to the economy - letting market forces lead the way. When I was treasurer, interest rates hit 22%. Since becoming Prime Minister, China has boomed, the Internet has come along - and I take all the credit for it. Oh, except for the interest rate rises - that's got nothing to do with me.

The Environment - I, and many members of my party, have always been climate change sceptics. Lately it's become annoyingly popular to talk about Global Warming. So I have made some token gestures to make it look like I care. The reality is that I support my friends and lobbyists in the fossil fuel industry, so it's business as usual, for as long as possible. I also support logging of virgin forests in Tasmania.

Democracy - I am a keen supporter of large donations to the Liberal Party. Of big business, by big business, for big business.

Justice - Even though I used to be a solicitor, I don't believe in the rule of law. I think that political agendas are far more important than justice.

The Death Penalty - I am 100% opposed to the death penalty - in Australia. But... I fully support the execution of people in other countries - like Singapore, Indonesia or Iraq - if it is constitutional. After all, they knew the risks, and the rule of law... oh wait...

John Howard is committed to getting elected, celebrating ...then retiring.
